2011 STGCSA Annual Meeting

December 2

Cole's Country — Cypress

This month's host . . . Raven Nest Golf Club

Seamlessly blended into the rolling wooded landscape, Raven Nest offers players of every skill level a beautiful match between challenge and enjoyment.

The club features the home course of the Sam Houston State PGA Golf Management program, the Sam Houston State University Bearkats, Huntsville Hornets, and New Waverly High.

The course itself will challenge golfers of all ability levels. The tee options range from the forward green tees measuring 5,416 yards with a course rating/slope of 69.8/121 to the most challenging black tees, which measure 6,943 yards and have a course rating/slope of 72.6/130.

Raven Nest Golf Club is proud to host numerous PGA Playing Ability Tests as well as college and high school events throughout the season.

The two pictures to the left are just a sampling of Raven Nest's character. You can find a hole-by-hole description of the course by visiting:

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

How is it already November? Seems like just yesterday and it was October.

Just kidding, of course, but it does seem to me that every year (and even month) goes by faster than the last. This year has certainly lived up to those expectations.

Our last regular meeting of 2011 (otherwise know as our Annual Meeting) is coming up very soon, on Nov. 8, to be exact, at Raven Nest Golf Club. You'll find all kinds of reminders throughout this issue of Tee to Green, but I hope you've had the meeting on your calendar for a while and that you'll be on hand. You need to be.

Our Annual Meeting is and should be our biggest event of the year. It's when you, as an STGCSA member, have the opportunity to hear your leaders discuss the Chapter's activities for the past year and plans for the future, and for you to have an impact on that future- the annual meeting is when we conduct our election and choose our leaders for the next 12 months and beyond.

If you look back at the September issue of Tee to Green, you'll find a complete list of the candidates for office (with the exception of any candidates that may be nominated from the floor of the meeting and write-in candidates) to consider.

You'll also find a proposed change to our by-laws next to the list, and I ask that you take a look at it, too. It's a simple procedural change but it's important; approving it will allow our meeting planners to position our annual meeting in September, October or November, rather than being limited just to November. That flexibility will provide a wider range of host sites and perhaps a bit of convenience to our schedule.

The golf portion of this year's Annual Meeting will be pick-your-partner, so if you haven't already, grab a teammate and make plans to carpool to Huntsville. I think it will be a great event! I always love visiting new golf courses for the first time, and I'm sure Raven Nest is not going to disappoint. David Gray and his staff have been working hard to get ready for us so come on up and enjoy it.

Every year brings with it changes, and 2012 will be no exception. We have already opened up new membership and renewal forms on our website to make the process easier for everyone. We are going to start compiling photos of all the members for several reasons, not the least of which is an online directory with photos that we would like to launch in 2012. This should help everyone put names with faces since we can't all make it to every meeting. So please send Marian a photo of yourself via email if you have one you'd like to use.

Another change in 2012 will be with the newsletter... again. While it will be still a digital version with one printed version in September, there will be some differences to look forward to, starting with who will be doing it. Marian Takushi

Bayer Superintendent Grant Program: Act very quickly!

Bayer Environmental Science has teamed up with The Environmental Institute for Golf to send five golf course superintendents to the GCSAA Education Conference and Golf Industry Show.

The purpose of this grant is to assist golf course superintendents with their professional development through participation in the annual event that features the most comprehensive education program available in the industry.

Superintendents who have not attended the GCSAA Education Conference and Golf Industry Show in the prior two years (San Diego '10 or Orlando '11) are eligible to apply.

Bayer Environmental Science will award grants to five superintendents, who will be selected through a random drawing. Each grant will cover expenses for the recipients' airfare, hotel accommodations for five nights, conference full-pack registration, two education seminars and $200 in spending money.

Please note that the value of the package is based on the actual cost, which will be reported as other income on Form 1099 for 2012. No taxes will be withheld for federal or state purposes. Please consult your tax adviser with questions.

To apply, simply complete the online application (available on www2/gcsaa.org within the "Education" pages) or the paper application and fax or mail it in. The deadline for entry is Oct. 31, 2011. The Environmental Institute for Golf will notify winners by Nov. 4, 2011.

Please note that if you have already pre-registered at the time of the drawing, GCSAA will refund any charges that would be covered by this program— only one application per person.

Valuable resources

When you have the chance, please take a minute to visit the Green Section's portal at <http://gsportal.usga.org> to find information regarding upcoming live webcasts and links to recordings of dozens of previously-delivered webcasts, and announcements of upcoming USGA Green Section activities, education conferences, and meetings.

Would you like to see the digital Record issues you missed? Or, maybe you heard about an article or video in a previous update. All of the issues are stored in one convenient location—the Green Section Record Archive at <https://gsportal.usga.org/gsr/default.aspx>. Take a look, even if you don't know what you've missed.

Konzem named GCSAA Chief Operating Officer

Richard Konzem, who has more than 30 years of managerial experience, primarily in intercollegiate athletics, has been named chief operating officer for the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America (GCSAA).

Konzem officially began his duties on Oct. 17.

Konzem comes to GCSAA from Rockhurst University, located in Kansas City, Mo., where he has served as director of athletics since November 2007.

During his tenure at Rockhurst, Konzem served on the NCAA Division II Men's Golf Regional Advisory Committee and had student-athletes from eight of 11 teams compete in NCAA postseason competition.

"I am pleased and excited to have Richard join the GCSAA team," GCSAA Chief Executive Officer Rhett Evans said. "He has an impressive track record of success supporting and facilitating a performance-driven culture among a group of diverse and talented individuals. That will serve the association well as he oversees the day-to-day operations of association programs with a focus on serving the GCSAA membership."

Konzem will be responsible for developing, implementing and executing key member programs that support the achievement of the association's mission, vision and operational goals. He will serve on the association's executive team and oversee the professional development; membership; strategic communications; corporate marketing, sales and business development; environmental programs; and events and meeting planning departments.

He will also represent GCSAA in a variety of industry and allied association events, programs and activities.

"I am honored to join the GCSAA staff and look forward to working with it, the board of directors and members," Konzem said. "As an avid golfer, I have the utmost respect for the professionals who manage the game's playing field."

Be here before you know it

The 2012 Golf Industry Show will be held Feb. 29-Mar. 1, at the Las Vegas Convention Center, with the associated Education Conferences to take place Feb. 27-Mar. 2.

Lone Star GCSA sets Raffle for Research

The Lone Star Golf Course Superintendents Association will be rolling out its latest fundraising campaign for research at the beginning of the year.

All of our state's local associations will be collecting rounds of golf to be raffled off in the first quarter of 2012. This project is very similar to the "Rounds for Research" campaign that was held last year.

Although the project produced over $6,000 for research last year, the Lone Star GCSA Board of Directors did not feel it was as successful as it should have been. We found that the weak link in that program was getting enough people to actually bid on the rounds.

The online bidding process was very cumbersome and we lost many interested bidders in the registration phase of the project. Accordingly, changes have been made, starting with the elimination of the online portion of the effort

Here is how we have designed the 2012 "Raffle for Research" project. In short, each Chapter will be assigned a target number of rounds of golf to secure, a target number of raffle tickets to be sold that will result in a goal for the funds it is responsible for raising. All sales will be conducted in person by volunteer members (and affiliate members) of the respective chapters.

We have tried to keep the odds of winning at around a one in 10 chance per ticket purchased.

We hope that there will be enough volunteers in each chapter that step up to sell five tickets per volunteer. The chapters that are designated to 200 tickets, for example, would only need 40 members selling five tickets each to reach their Chapter goal. That sounds extremely possible and it puts the control of success of the project back into our members' hands.

We hope to have the rounds of golf procured by the end of November and we hope to have the raffle tickets back from the printer by the end of December.

We have allocated the months of January and February for selling the tickets, and in March, each chapter will hold a drawing to pick the winners.

Each of the chapters will hold their own drawing to insure the rounds of golf donated in that particular area will be won by someone from within the Chapter's geographic territory.

Once all of the drawings have been held, all of the 750 tickets that were sold throughout the state will then be collected and another drawing will be held (by the LSGCSA) for a chance to win one of five (and possibly more) stay-and-play packages throughout the state.

will take over that duty beginning with the January 2012 issue.

I know it may seem like a long way off, but we are beginning to plan for the Scholarship tournament and auction, which will be in April again. Please start thinking now about what you might be able to contribute to the auction. We are giving out a lot of scholarship dollars every year now and we must continue to raise funds for this very worthy purpose!

Lastly, I hope everyone has Dec. 2 on their calendars for our annual Christmas Party.

We'll be sending out digital invitations soon and there is also a copy of it on the website (There will be no invitation coming in the mail this year.)

Granger Smith will be entertaining us with their own brand of Texas country music. You can check out grangersmith.com for a sample of their music.

I've seen these guys perform and they put on an outstanding show! Beer and margaritas will be provided as well as setups if you prefer to bring another type of libation. I look forward to seeing you there!

David Gray

David Gray set to host Annual Meeting

History says it's a fairly rare day when the South Texas Golf Course Superintendents Association travels outside the metropolitan Houston area for one of its "Monthly Meetings," and rarer still when it does so more than once in a given year.

You can count 2011, then, as singular—when the Chapter gathers at Huntsville's Raven Nest Golf Club on Nov. 8 for its Annual Meeting, it will have held three of its 2011 meetings out in the country, and that might just be a first.

The site of the third of those gatherings is a first, to be sure. The STGCSEA is making its first-ever trip to Raven Nest and will be hosted by Golf Course Superintendent David Gray, who has worked in Huntsville throughout his professional life.

Gray's family moved to Gonzales two years after he was born in Houston, and that's where he was raised. He headed to Blinn College after graduating from Gonzales High School, finishing up his Associates Degree in 1998.

He then transferred to Sam Houston State University and was head toward a geology degree when fate intervened. Raven Nest was then under construction and the sights made Gray curious; he met then superintendent Jerry Huntsman, gained an internship on Huntsman's staff, changed his major to horticulture and crop sciences, and was off and running.

He graduated from Sam Houston in 2002, having earned a Bachelor of Science degree, and went to work as an assistant superintendent across Interstate 45 at Elkins Lake Country Club. He stayed there for nearly five years before returning to Raven Nest and the golf course superintendent of the "home course" of the Sam Houston State University Bearkats.

Now 33 years old and a member of the STGCSEA for the past eight years, Gray is excited about the prospects of having his peers visit his facility. Of what they'll find there in the way of golf, he says, "The course has a lot of long carries. You might think it would be an easy course from looking at it, but it's a grind . . . it's tough."

The course, he says, is fairly wide open. with "not that many trees" on rolling hills, adding that "staying in the fairways is key. The native grasses in the rough can be tough, but they're thinner this year because of the drought, so that might help a little."

Sounds like just what the doctor ordered for a bunch of folks looking for a getaway, and who share at least one thing in common with Gray.

"I just love getting to be outside," says Gray of his attraction to the turf management profession.

It would be unusual to find someone in the business who doesn't feel that way.

Please . . .

. . . keep your contact information up to date.

If you have a new employer, phone number, e-mail or physical address, please relay the details to Marian Takushi at stgcsa@windstream.net.

Always Fun!

The 2011 STGCSA Christmas Party is coming, this time around on Dec. 2, just eight days after Thanksgiving.

This year's party will be held in Cypress at Cole's Country, an expansive facility that's set up to host "Parties, Picnics Corporate Events, Receptions - Whatever your event might be." The facility is located at 12702 Cypress Valley in Cypress.

Entertainment this time around will be an up-and-coming country-and-western recording artist with "seven top 10 singles, three tours in Iraq and Kuwait to play for the American Soldiers, and three shows at the White House." You can read more about Granger Smith on his web site (www.granger-smith.com).

The gathering will begin with a 6:30 p.m. reception. Dinner will be served beginning at 7 p.m. and the annual awards and scholarship presentations at 8 p.m.

The entertainment will last from approximately 8:30 to 10 p.m. Beer and margaritas will be served with dinner, and you're welcome to bring your own drinks if you'd like.

Dress is casual and the cost will be $85 per couple or $42.50 per individual. You can reserve your spot by calling Marian Takushi or sending her an e-mail by Nov. 30.
